YOUR TASKS

- Strategic development of the North American author base in linguistics and related interdisciplinary fields in close coordination with our Editorial Director for Linguistics
- Expansion and fostering of academic networks with authors, editors, societies, and research institutes in North America
- Budget responsibility for project signings and output toward achieving economic objectives
- Representation of the department at international academic conferences
- Close collaboration with our editorial office, marketing, and sales teams

YOUR PROFILE

- At least three years experience in international academic book publishing and a degree in Linguistics or a related subfield of the Social Sciences
- A Master's degree or PhD in Linguistics or a related subfield of the Social Sciences
- Experience in the acquisition of academic books and related products in North America, ideally in linguistics
- Experience in maintaining an academic network in North America
- Intellectual curiosity with a passion for finding creative solutions towards developing publishing products

WE OFFER YOU

- An exciting professional challenge for one of the innovation drivers of the publishing industry
- Extensive benefits for a healthy, balanced life and work
- Time and space for curiosity, learning and development
- Passionate colleagues in diverse teams

At De Gruyter, we believe in diversity and are committed to equal employment opportunities for everyone. It is our shared goal to create a workplace culture centered around inclusion and belonging.
