

De Gruyter is an independent academic publisher that has been publishing excellent research since 1749. It publishes about 1,600 new titles annually in 29 subject areas across the humanities, social sciences, STM, and law, as well as more than 800 subscription and open-access journals and a variety of digital products. It is one of the largest independent open-access book publishers. Headquartered in Berlin and with locations worldwide, the group includes the eight imprints De Gruyter Akademie Forschung, Birkhäuser, De Gruyter Mouton, De Gruyter Oldenbourg, De Gruyter Saur, Düsseldorf University Press, Deutscher Kunstverlag and Jovis Verlag.

📍 Boston, MA or US Remote ⌚ Full-time 📅 03.01.2025

Acquisitions Editor Mathematics & Computer Sciences

As part of our Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STM) division, our editorial department continuously develops the digital and print titles portfolio of first-class specialist literature. In your role, you will be responsible for the acquisition of new outstanding publication projects. The position on offer foresees an unlimited contract.

YOUR TASKS

- Strategic development and international alignment of our Mathematics and Computer Sciences portfolio in close coordination with our Vice President Publishing for STM
- Acquisition of a publication portfolio (books, book series, electronic resources) in Mathematics and Computer Sciences with a focus on the U.S. market
- Expansion and fostering of academic and professional networks with authors, editors, societies, research institutes and companies in the industries
- Budget responsibility for project signings and output toward achieving economic objectives
- Representation of the department at international academic conferences and industry fairs
- Close collaboration with our editorial office, production, marketing, and sales teams

YOUR PROFILE

- Ideally a Master's degree or a PhD in Mathematics (pure or applied), Computer Sciences or related subject
- Professional experience is a plus
- Network in the according communities
- Strong focus on acquisitions and demonstrated interpersonal and communicational abilities
- An good knowledge of the market and a strong interest in different publishing forms
- Proficiency in Microsoft Office (Excel, Word, PowerPoint, Outlook)
- Excellent oral and written communication skills

WE OFFER YOU

- An exciting professional challenge for one of the innovation drivers of the publishing industry
- Family-friendly working time models, flexitime and a flexible home office arrangement for a good work-life balance
- A generous vacation entitlement and special leave days
- Extensive benefits and allowances for a healthy, balanced life
- Development budget and opportunities for training and personal development
- Passionate colleagues in diverse, international teams; joint team events and company parties

At De Gruyter, we believe in diversity and are committed to equal employment opportunities for everyone. It is our shared goal to create a workplace culture centered around inclusion and belonging.

APPLY NOW

